

Madeleine Slutsky, President

In July 2006 Madeleine Slutsky was appointed president of The Art Institute of Indianapolis, a member of The Art Institutes system of schools. In this role she leads the college's strategic direction and ensures that the institution delivers on its commitment to provide world-class creative and applied arts programming. Ms. Slutsky leverages her vast experience and collaborates with the school's faculty and staff to pursue an aggressive agenda that includes building strategic relationships with local business, education, civic and arts communities; ensuring that the college meets The Art Institutes and the industry's rigorous quality standards; and creating a thriving educational environment for students.

Ms. Slutsky brings to The Art Institute of Indianapolis a wealth of education leadership experience and practical industry knowledge drawn from her distinguished 20-year career with The Art Institutes, a higher education industry leader. Immediately prior to joining The Art Institute of Indianapolis, she served as director of career services at the Illinois Institute of Art – Chicago, also an Art Institutes educational institution. Ms. Slutsky is also the former director of fashion and a member of the fashion faculty at Ray College of Design (now the Illinois Institute of Art – Chicago).

A native Chicagoan, Ms. Slutsky is currently completing a master's degree in educational leadership from Argosy University. She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in sociology from the University of Illinois in Chicago.