

Kasey Cosentino
Interior Design Student

Designing Success

After Niagara Falls High School, Kasey graduated from a local community college with a degree in Fine Arts. She decided that Interior Design would be the best option for utilizing her skills and the degree she had already earned.

She interviewed at other schools, but felt most comfortable at The Art Institute of New York City. "Since it's a smaller school, I got so many more opportunities to network with faculty and other professionals. Also, faculty and Admissions really gets to know the student, and direct them to the right area."

Kasey is a Student Ambassador, assists the Department Chair, monitors the Interior Design resource room, and is a Resident Advisor at the St. George dormitory; yet she has been on the Dean's List for academic achievement every quarter since she began.

She is the president of the student chapter of American Society of Interior Designers (ASID), the professional organization that offers students the opportunity to network at competitions and showroom events throughout the city.

Kasey has studied history of art, furniture and architecture. From age two, she has been into dancing, acting, singing and painting. Her interest in dance led her to explore set, prop and costume design. She likes being in control of all facets of her "performance."

"The Art Institute of New York City is located in the center of art and design. A walking tour always inspires me. New York City is the right place to be for this field."
