

Success Story

Lora Lee

Outstanding Achiever!

It has been said that the best predictor of future behavior is past behavior. For Lora Lee, that prediction holds bright promise.

Lora wanted to be in fashion since she was a little girl. Growing up in Neptune, NJ, she was called the “the fashion girl” at Neptune High School.

To attend The Art Institute of New York City, her commute was 1½ hours each way. Undaunted, she carried a full load of classes carrying a GPA of 3.9, working in 2 internship positions simultaneously. In her “spare time,” she works on weekends in a senior citizens center, where she was recently voted Employee of the Month.

Lora has a strong interest in technical design – the all-important fit of garments. One of her internships was at Brooks Brothers, where she continues to work in a paid internship position.

Lora’s desire is to work in the fashion industry, eventually creating her own line of evening wear to be shown in her own boutiques. She has always aimed high, and so far her achievements have matched her goals.

According to Lora, “The instructors at The Art Institute of New York City are amazing. I really valued their opinion and their knowledge. I feel I was one of the best in the school, because I do my best in everything. The school brought out the best in me. My confidence is boosted a lot, and I’m glad I came to The Art Institute of New York City.”

Shown below are some of Lora’s evening wear designs.
