

Marjorie Brown
Olympus Fashion Week Volunteer

“Volunteering at Fashion Week is Like a Dream Come True.”

Marjorie Brown, a 6th quarter Fashion Design student, considers herself lucky to have been chosen to participate in the volunteer program at Olympus Fashion Week in Bryant Park. Volunteers are selected on the basis of grades and attendance, so clearly more than luck played a part.

Volunteers help fill gift bags, work in the hair and make-up area, help with clean-up, and prepare special celebrity locations. Marjorie is in awe of the designers she has had the opportunity to observe—Betsy Johnson, BCBG Max Azria & Vivienne Tam.

“A Fashion Student is so fortunate to have this learning experience. Each designer is different. I see the really hard work that goes on behind the scenes—things that are not taught in the classroom. I’m learning from the masters.”

“I’m having the time of my life doing this. I wish I would have started at The Art Institute of New York City years ago.”

“One day I want to create my own collection, and show it in Bryant Park, using volunteers from my school, The Art Institute of New York City.”
